

Preliminary Funding Account

A simple and convenient funding strategy

The Preliminary Funding Account (PFA) is a useful tool that clients can use to provide a single lump-sum payment to max-fund their policy, while avoiding being classified as a Modified Endowment Contract (MEC).*

Key advantages

Simple and convenient

Client only has to make one upfront payment, from which the ongoing annual premiums will be automatically made to the policy, simplifying the management of the policy.

Non-modified endowment contract

The PFA allows a single lump sum to be paid without violating rules of a MEC, which in turn allows for tax-free access to cash value.

Retirement income growth potential

The PFA will earn a competitive guaranteed rate of 3.5% while the policy is being funded, resulting in more premium paid and subsequently more cash value accumulation potential for retirement income in the future.

How does PFA work?

1. Client makes a one-time, single payment when the policy is issued.
2. Choose the duration of the annual premium payments from the PFA to the policy (schedule between 3-10 years). Premium payments are automatically transferred from the PFA to the policy each year.
3. Throughout the duration, the amount in the PFA will earn a competitive guaranteed rate of 3.5%.

Let's look at an example:

Client (male, age 45, best risk class) purchases Accumulation IUL '21 Reprice and funds the PFA with $100,000. He elects to fund the policy over 7 years with annual premium of $15,801.

Year	PFA value (BOY)		Annual premium (PFA transfer to policy)		PFA value after transfer		Interest earned		PFA value (EOY)
1	$100,000	-	$15,801	=	$84,199	+	$2,947	=	$87,146
2	$87,146	-	$15,801	=	$71,344	+	$2,497	=	$73,841
3	$73,841	-	$15,801	=	$58,040	+	$2,031	=	$60,071
4	$60,071	-	$15,801	=	$44,270	+	$1,549	=	$45,819
5	$45,819	-	$15,801	=	$30,018	+	$1,051	=	$31,068
6	$31,068	-	$15,801	=	$15,267	+	$534	=	$15,801
7	$15,801	-	$15,801	=	0	+	0	=	0
			$110,610

$10,610 additional total premium using PFA. Provides $21,900 of annual income at retirement and target premium of $5,458 — 11% more income and 11% more target than without using the PFA!

In addition to Accumulation IUL '21 Reprice, the Preliminary Funding Account is also available on Protection IUL '22, Protection UL '22, Protection SUL '22 and Protection SIUL '22.
